

ALEXANDRIA.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 18.

NOBODY doubts the ability of General Mahone as a party manager—that is, a party composed of such material as constitutes the republican party of Virginia. His "methods," if applied to a party composed of intelligent, self-respecting American citizens, would be scouted, but with ignorant and prejudiced negroes, and white men who, as Mr. Wise, his ex-lieutenant, himself says, are "apostates for the price of their apostasy," his "maign influence," as his other discarded follower, ex-Gov. Cameron, termed it, is immense. The General knows the nature of the element of his party, and acts accordingly. All familiar with him know that he is utterly devoid of either rhetorical or oratorical powers, and that if he were, he is totally unprepared by education for the exercise of either; but it is a real surprise to know that he is so deficient in the art of composition that he was unable to compose even such a poor speech as the only one he ever made in the Senate—that in reply to the courting in flicted upon him by the late Senator Hill, and yet Senator Riddleberger now proclaims that such is the fact, and that he, himself, is the author of that speech, which General Mahone read from printed slips.

IN HIS speech to the Virginia democratic convention, Governor Lee said: "Our policy is to give to the public schools all that the Constitution gives them, to take care of our insane, and after that, I am willing to say to the bondholders, You can have what we can spare from our necessities." If a man with a large estate and an extravagant family, who had borrowed money with which to improve his estate and make it more valuable, were to say to his creditors, "I cannot curtail my expenses, but after they are provided for I will pay you what I can spare from the remainder," what would be thought of him? And yet, according to the Governor, that is just exactly what Virginia says to her creditors, and that, too, though among the latter are many of her widows and orphans, whose husbands and fathers relying upon the honor and honesty of their own State, invested money in her bonds as provision for the support of their dependent families. No wonder either Gov. Lee nor any other Virginian is spoken of, outside the limits of his own State, for a place on either of the national tickets to be nominated next month.

THREE HUNDRED and forty one divorce cases were recorded in Boston in one day of the current week, all with the object of changing husbands or wives. And yet of all the congressional Solons the most vehement denouncers of polygamy in Utah are those who hail from the highly moral State of Massachusetts. The difference between the Mormon and the Massachusetts polygamists is that while the former take all their wives at the same time and take care of them until they die, the latter take theirs one at a time, and when tired of them turn them loose to get along as well as they can. Most right thinking people deem the former the better plan.

AS ANTICIPATED, the "kickers" at the republican State convention booted and set up another convention in opposition to that belonging to General Mahone. But the democrats should not be lulled into any false security by such action on the part of their now divided enemies, for when the day of election shall come all divisions among the latter will be healed, and they will march to the polls in serried ranks under command of General Mahone and vote the republican ticket. Mr. Wise, as of yore, crying out "Lead on Master, we'll follow thee!"

From Washington. [Special Correspondence of the ALEX. GAZETTE.] WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18, 1888.

The tariff bill and its possible fate are the engrossing topics of conversation at the Capitol to-day, and continue to be surrounded by as much doubt as ever, and what is unusual in such cases, that doubt is as great to the leaders of both parties as it is to outsiders. Mr. Mills and the prominent friends of the bill want a direct vote on it as soon as possible, and say that if such a vote be taken all but six democrats will be for it, even though some of them are opposed to it, the latter being forced to support it for the reason that they fear having it said at home that they failed to vote for the only measure before the House that looked towards tariff reform, even though it did not accord exactly with all their ideas on that subject. These latter don't want a vote taken on the bill until they can make a record on the amendments they have proposed; but if a direct vote be forced, as previously said, all except about six will vote for it, for the reason mentioned. The republicans are divided as to the course that they shall pursue that will be most advantageous to their own, and most injurious to the democratic party. Some of them are in favor of bringing the matter to a focus at once and holding the democrats responsible for the evil effects, if there be any. Others think the proper course will be to resort to every available means by which to defeat the bill, so that it can be said that the democratic administration's pet measure was defeated by a democratic House. Mr. Randall made his speech against the bill in the House to-day. The galleries were crowded and there were more on the floor than usual. But he read his speech, and spoke so low that hardly any of it could be heard a few yards from him. That part which was heard, however, evinced no good feeling to the majority of the democratic party or to the South, and he concluded by saying that he hoped the principles and policy that had dominated this country up to 1861 would never be revived. When he concluded, the applause he received came entirely from the republicans, and of the few who congratulated him nearly all were republicans, the chief among them being Mr. Kelley, the leading republican protectionist in the House, and Mr. Foster, the republican ex-Governor of Ohio. Mr. Randall was followed by Mr. McKinley, republican, of Ohio, on the same side, who said he was glad that in the coming national contest the issue was fairly and squarely drawn, that the democratic was the low and the republican the protective tariff party, and that no intelligent voter could plead ignorance of the policy for which he would cast his ballot. Mr. McKinley will be followed by Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, to hear whom the crowd are present. The general debate will be concluded to-morrow, when Mr. Reed will sum up for the republicans and Mr. Speaker Carlisle for the democrats, and both speeches will be well worth hearing.

At the sixty-fourth annual meeting of the American Baptist Publication Society, held here to-day, one of the most oratorical addresses delivered was that on work among the freedmen, by Rev. S. T. Clanton, a colored man from New Orleans. Representatives Lee and Wise, who attended the late democratic convention of their State, have returned and were in their seats in the House to-day. The former says the convention was perfectly harmonious, and that the hospitality of Norfolk was unbounded, that the strawberries, early vegetables, oysters, crabs and fish were delicious and plentiful, that the opera house is the best hall for a convention in the State, and that most of the delegates want the next one held there. He also says that everybody there was for Cleveland.

Some of the delegates to the Virginia republican convention at Petersburg yesterday are here to-day on their way home. They say that Mr. John Wise was very severe upon Gen. Mahone, and in one of his speeches said that when he exclaimed, on a former occasion, "Master, lead on, I'll follow thee," he had no idea that Mahone was so deficient in the art of composition that he was unable to compose even such a poor speech as the only one he ever made in the Senate—that in reply to the courting in flicted upon him by the late Senator Hill, and yet Senator Riddleberger now proclaims that such is the fact, and that he, himself, is the author of that speech, which General Mahone read from printed slips.

THE BALTIMORE and Ohio Railroad Company will soon erect a commodious stone depot of unique and handsome design at Woodstock.

Mr. W. O. Burton, who is rebuilding the Richmond penitentiary shoe shop, yesterday drew his second instalment of $5,000 on account. The total amount to be paid is $20,000.

Suits are to be instituted against about seventy persons in Fairfax who have tendered coupons for taxes. The cases will probably be tried at the June term of the Circuit Court.

The Virginia Episcopal Council has decided to hold its next session in Lynchburg. Strong opposition is indicated to the proposed change in the name of the Church by expunging the word "Protestant."

Thomas B. Yeaman, a farmer of Pittsylvania county, while returning home in a one horse cart, and while crossing the Virginia Midland Railway track in North Danville, was run into by a shifting engine. One of his hands was crushed off and he was seriously wounded on the head.

A Deputy Sheriff yesterday arrested three of the leaders of the strike on the B. S. and P. Railroad. They were arrested under the law against intimidation, and failing to give bail were committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury at next August court. Work on the railroad will now be resumed.

Mr. A. B. Guigon, of Richmond, agent for Mr. Cooper, tendered coupons to the sheriff and city sergeant of Winchester yesterday in payment of 140 judgments rendered in the courts against taxpayers tendering coupons. The coupons tendered yesterday were reported to have been cut from bonds now in possession of the Baltimore Trust Company. The agent says the original bonds will be produced in the court when suits are brought.

POLITICAL.

The republican convention which met in Petersburg yesterday split, the Wise faction seceding and holding a separate meeting.

In the Mahone convention Col. William Lamb was made permanent chairman, and Capt. Asa Rogers, of Petersburg, secretary. The report of the Third district delegation was presented, when John S. Wise, who led the opposing delegation from that district, attempted to speak from the gallery, but was cried down. However, he left the gallery, and followed by a number of adherents, made his way to the stage through a howling mob. There he was accorded a hearing and advocated the claims of his delegation. He charged corruption and fraud on the part of the opponents in his district, when a voice exclaimed, "Give 'em hell." "Yes, I'll give 'em hell and rub it in, too," said Wise. He came to this convention with twenty-five out of sixty six delegates from his district, and yet the convention had tried to emasculate them by letting in these impostors and frauds. With all this his loyalty could not be shaken. He was going to hold a district convention in spite of all and was going to Chicago to fight the battle of the republican party, and let those who did the wrong stand from under. All that had been foretold in this case had happened. The time had now come when the plan of organization had to be stopped and not subverted. Wise then called up on all who were opposed to the tyranny of their party boss to leave the hall. With his hands and arms, about one third of the convention, mostly from the third (Wise's) and the seventh (Riddleberger's) and eighth districts, followed and quit the convention. Among the bolters were ex-Lieut. Gov. John F. Lewis, Congressman Jacob Yost, ex-Congressman Libby, United States District Attorney Sheffield Lewis and many other prominent leaders. With their followers they went to the Grays' armory and organized another convention with Gen. Groner, of Norfolk, chairman.

After the bolt of the Wise faction Mahone's convention proceeded with its business. W. F. Giddings, one of the delegates from the Richmond district who remained, delivered a speech, in which he denounced Wise in the most intemperate language. He was followed by ex-Attorney General Blair in the same line. The committee on business reported the following delegates at large to the Chicago convention: John G. Watts, of Tazewell; S. Brown Allen, of Augusta; A. H. Harris, of Dinwiddie, and Gen. Wm. Mahone, of Petersburg. Electors at large: Col. William Lamb, of Norfolk, and Frank S. Blair, of Wythe. The same committee reported in favor of the unit rule at Chicago and the continuance of the present plan of organization, and the report was adopted.

The following platform was adopted: We, the republicans of Virginia, in convention assembled, proclaim our fidelity to the republican party, State and national; we again arraign the democratic party for its falsification of its professions; its denial of honest elections; its assaults against protection; its refusal to abolish oppressive war taxes of the internal revenue; its failure to reduce the growing surplus in the national treasury; its mockery of civil service reform and its continued obstruction of the Blair school bill. Resolved, that our representatives in Congress are urged to use every proper effort to maintain and extend protection over all our interests; to remove internal taxes from our tobacco and fruit, and to obtain liberal provision for the improvement of our rivers and harbors, and especially of Chesapeake bay and its tributaries. Resolved, that we are opposed to a convention to revise the State constitution as unnecessary, costly and dangerous, and that we hold that all desirable constitutional amendments can be more wisely and safely adopted by legislative action ratified by the people.

The following delegates to Chicago were named: Second district, L. L. Maury, of Southampton, and R. M. Smith, of Elizabeth City; third, J. W. Southard, of Henrico, and John Mitchell, of Richmond; fifth, W. H. Pleasants, of Danville, and J. D. Perkins, of Grayson; sixth, J. B. Stovall, of Halifax, and W. Lee Brand, of Roanoke; eighth, W. H. Slaughter, of Fauquier, and W. C. Egan, of Loudoun; ninth, M. B. Wood, of Scott, and W. A. French, of Giles; tenth, W. E. Craig, of Augusta, and Omar Perkins of Buckingham.

The delegations from the First, Fourth, and Seventh districts did not report the names of their delegates.

In the bolters' convention speeches were made by John S. Wise, J. S. Allen, and Paul, colored, of Richmond, Senator Riddleberger, D. F. Houston, of Roanoke, and others. Mr. Wise's speech was mainly a tirade against Gen. Mahone and his methods, while the theme of the other speakers was in the same strain, all asserting in most positive terms that Gen. Mahone must retire in order to preserve the integrity of the republican party in the State. A committee to prepare business for the meeting was then appointed and speaking was resumed. The Third district delegates will meet in Richmond to-morrow to elect delegates to Chicago and electors. The other districts in which Chicago delegates have not been elected will hold conventions upon the return of the delegates to their homes.

After much speech making, Col. D. H. Houston, of Roanoke city, was elected chairman of the State executive committee, and the plan of party organization as proposed by Wise in his letter last March was adopted. The delegates at large to the national convention are V. D. Groner, of Norfolk; Sam Yost, of Augusta; R. A. Paul, colored, of Richmond, and C. A. Herman, of Montgomery.

The purported interview with Mr. Blaine, published in a Buffalo paper, in which he gave a quasi support to Mr. Dewey for president is doubted most decidedly.

At the Maryland republican convention yesterday the following delegates were chosen to represent Maryland in the Chicago convention: Walter B. Brooks, Adam E. King, William D. Eubank, Daniel B. Dickson, Dr. W. G. Tuck, Milton G. Urner, and Thomas Gorsuch. F. Snowden Hill and John R. Bond were named as electors at large.

The action of Congressman McComas and other republican members of Congress in opposing the Mills tariff bill, was endorsed.

The Minnesota democratic convention advocates a reduction of the tariff and a repeal of war taxes. The addition of wool and other raw materials to the free list is also advocated.

The South Carolina democratic convention adopted a platform expressing unqualified approbation of President Cleveland's administration and the Mill's bill.

The Delans republicans favor the nomination of Blaine for President.

The Prohibitionists of North Carolina have nominated a full State ticket with the exception of Secretary of State and Attorney General.

The Methodist General Conference has determined to elect five new bishops.

SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

STAUNTON, Va., May 17th.—Divine service was held at ten o'clock this morning. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Melville Jackson, of Richmond. The council then met for business, the first order of the day being the reading of Bishop Whittle's address by Bishop Randolph. From this we call the following: "Being providentially deprived of the great privilege and pleasure of meeting with you in our 93d Annual Council, I send you my loving and affectionate greetings, with the prayer that the Holy Spirit may be present to guide, direct and assist you in all your proceedings. I was taken sick the middle of February and have been ever since almost entirely unable to attend to any duty, and now, although much better, am still not in a condition to undergo the fatigue and excitement of the council."

The Bishop then gave the number of communications and visitations up to the time of his sickness, of which we present the summary: Visitations, 50; baptisms, 4; infants, 2; confirmed, 218; postulants received, 7 white, 1 colored; candidates for deacons's orders, colored 1; candidates for priest's orders, 9; deacons ordained, white, 7, colored, 3; prebenders ordained, 3; ministers deceased, Rev. W. Norwood, D. D., Rev. Parker Farley Berkeley and Rev. B. M. Jefferson, colored; letters dismissory given, white, 14, colored, 2; letters received, 8; present number of clergy, 153. The Rev. Eversard Meade has been appointed evangelist of the diocese. On the question of the change of name of the church, the Bishop said that he felt sure the diocese was a unit, and without waiting for a report from any committee, he hoped that this meeting of the council would solemnly proclaim to the church and the world that the Diocese of Virginia is unalterably resolved by God's help to retain her Protestant name as well as Protestant character and principles. In conclusion he feelingly referred to the affectionate remembrance by his clergy of the 20th anniversary of his consecration, in the presentation of a new set of robes, and a kindly testimonial of their love and esteem.

Next followed the Assistant Bishop's address. Summary: Visitations, 130; confirmations, 1,129. Referring to the convention of the Young Men's Christian Association in Petersburg the 23d of January, last, he says the growing strength and vitality of this association for Christian work among the young men of all the Protestant churches is a subject of earnest congratulation for all intelligent and liberal minded Christians. He next spoke on the history of legislation on colored work in this diocese, premising that the work of the church in the race has steadily grown, while legislation has made no perceptible progress from its first inception in 1866 up to the present time. He concludes that both white and colored desire a separate organization for the colored churches, and trusts that the present council may find it their duty to take some step towards a definite plan of organization for the colored churches and which may pass into canon law at the next council. On vacant parishes, he recommended that such place themselves under the diocesan missionary committee, with a pledge of the amount they can give for such ministerial services as the committee may be able to secure.

The next order was the election of standing committees. Committees were also appointed on the colored work and vacant parishes, both to report at this council.

The Virginia Seminary Magazine was heartily commended to the council and fully endorsed by it. Adjournment took place until four o'clock this afternoon.

Presbyterian General Assemblies.

The General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church in the United States—the highest official body of that organization—is in session in Baltimore. Dr. Murkland, in a very pleasant and cordial manner, extended a welcome to the assembly. Rev. Drs. J. J. Bullock, of Washington; S. A. King, of Central Texas, and J. R. Graham, of Winchester, were named for moderator, and the vote resulted as follows: Dr. Bullock 78, Graham 26 and Dr. King 24. Dr. Bullock was declared elected, and on taking the chair, thanked the assembly for the honor. Dr. Bullock, the newly elected moderator, is a man of striking and commanding appearance. He is tall and broad-shouldered, has a mild blue eye, and a face that betokens benevolence and intellect. He is about sixty-eight years of age; was born in Kentucky, but now lives in Washington. He is one of the oldest and ablest men in the assembly. Dr. Bullock graduated at Danville Seminary, and before and during the war was pastor of the Franklin Street Church, Baltimore. Subsequently he received a call to the Second Presbyterian church in Alexandria, Va. He remained at Alexandria until he was elected a few years ago, chaplain of the United States Senate.

The missions are in a healthy condition, especially China and Japan, Italy, Brazil and Mexico. The receipts of the home missionary society were $71,813.47 and the disbursements $58,048.39, leaving a balance on hand of $13,765.08.

The centennial meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly, the supreme ecclesiastical body of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, began in Philadelphia yesterday. Rev. Dr. Charles L. Thompson, of Kansas City, was elected moderator of the first ballot.

Could he talk he would tell you that FREEMAN'S FACE POWDER gives the complexion, the hue, nature intended and is harmless.
